Essays on Mediation Jul 19 2022 Across a range of jurisdictions, in differing legal systems, mediation is achieving evergreater institutional and statutory force, and what not long ago was a marginal technique for dispute resolution is becoming mainstream and orthodox. But how firm a sense do we have about the social formation we call 'mediation'? Through reflections and case histories, this distinctive collection of essays by experienced mediators from across the globe provides a clearer understanding than we have had heretofore of what mediation is and what it can offer as a practical, accessible and positive alternative in civil justice systems. The authors each address ways mediation has been or can be applied to dispute resolution in such pressing contexts as the following: • enduring and intense conflicts; • planning and environmental issues; • conflicts arising between refugee and 'host' communities; • elder care; • intercultural settings; • online communication; • science-based disputes; and • public policy disputes. The questions raised as to access to justice, identifying unmet needs, improving the provision of services, and fostering an ongoing conversation on mediation go well beyond the confines of commercial dispute resolution and the walls of courtrooms. Through the practical experiences described, useful and insightful perspectives emerge on the practice, principles and legitimacy of mediation. These invaluable reports and reflections on the powerful resources that mediation and mediators can bring to the table will be welcomed by a diversity of legal practitioners and jurists as well as academics.

Settling Disputes Jan 13 2022 Within the past few years, innovative methods have been developed not only to settle disputes out of court but also to supplement or replace the means by which legislatures, businesses, communities, therapists, and schools handle conflicts that once could be resolved only by litigation or force. Settling Disputes serves as an essential guide to the new settlement alternatives. This updated edition, in response to the rapid changes of the past five years, includes substantial new material that describes recent transformations in the way that courts and public agencies respond to disputes. The book discusses alternative dispute resolution from the viewpoints of potential participants and offers advice to those who are involved in disputes to help them analyze their situations and goals. Finally, it provides suggestions for professionals involved in dispute resolution and for those whose jobs in law, business, or government are affected by the new options for settling disputes. The dispute resolution movement continues to offer the most hopeful, powerful alternative to the business and personal costs of litigation or, worse, of violence. It has tremendous implications for the professional lives of Americans, for their private lives?as parents, spouses, neighbors, and consumers?and for their role as citizens. The first edition of Settling Disputes was awarded the 1990 Center for Public Resources Book Prize.

An Interest-based Mediation Jan 01 2021 This Package 1A contains the teacher's manual that is designed to accompany Package 1. Melinda J. Branscomb and Sue Ann Allen, An Interest-based Mediation - TEACHER'S AND TRAINER'S MANUAL (2010) (www.MediationTrainingResources.com) The TEACHER'S MANUAL contains a complete transcript of the film, as well as explanations about the mediation process and the mediator's goals, techniques and objectives in each stage of the film. The Manual contains all screen shots, or bullet points that highlight and summarize key concepts. It includes classroom learning objectives, and it provides informative background about the range of mediator styles and approaches. A caucus exercise enables students to identify precise moments in the mediation at which the mediator used certain techniques to accomplish specific goals. Further expanding on some of the points touched on in the film, additional text box notes in the Teacher's Manual provide the teacher with a fertile source of questions for lively classroom discussion, such as: Why aren't the lawyers present?; What is the difference between the mediation process and shuttle negotiation?; What are these parties' underlying interests?; and so forth. The Teacher's Manual's chapters correspond to the chapters in the film, which in turn, chronologically track the stages of mediation, making the book particularly user-friendly. Both the Teacher's Manual and the Student Handbook include a transcript of the film's narration, the screen shot summaries of key points, the caucus exercise, the learning objectives, and the background information about the range of mediator styles and approaches. However, the Student Handbook does not include the transcript of the mediation session; the details about the film found in the teacher's "Welcome" section; suggestions for using the written and audio-visual materials; or the text box notes that elaborate on points in the film for the teacher's use in classroom discussion.

Dispute Resolution in China Nov 18 2019 In recent years, the Chinese legal system on civil litigation, arbitration and mediation, including their respective laws, regulations, and legal institutions, has undergone many changes. These reforms include, for example, three rounds of Reform Plans of the People's Courts (1998-2013), amendments to the Civil Procedure Law in 2007 and 2012, revisions to rules of China's flagship arbitration institution, the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (CIETAC), in 2005 and 2012, and promulgation of the People's Mediation Law in 2010. This book focuses on the law and development of these three major dispute resolution mechanisms in China, examining the design and legal framework of civil litigation, arbitration and mediation, their operations, challenges, and past-decade reforms. It also explores the wider contextual factors (political, economic, and societal) that led to these developments and looks at the possible obstacles to further development, for civil justice reform in particular and rule-of-law in general. By examining up-to-date literatures while exploring answers to the academic inquiries, this book provides a thorough analysis of the dynamic contemporary Chinese system of dispute resolution that has on the one hand blended Chinese traditions, socioeconomic and sociopolitical realities, guanxi culture and foreign experience, and has on the other hand developed distinctively to respond to China's market and societal transitions. This book will be an invaluable reference tool for students, scholars and practitioners with an interest in Chinese law, dispute resolution, and broader economic and political dimensions of dispute resolution development in China.

The Oxford Handbook of International Law in Asia and the Pacific Aug 08 2021 The growing economic and political significance of Asia has exposed a tension in the modern international order. Despite expanding power and influence, Asian states have played a minimal role in creating the norms and institutions of international law; today they are the least likely to be parties to international agreements or to be represented in international organizations. That is changing. There is widespread scholarly and practitioner interest in international law at present in the Asia-Pacific region, as well as developments in the practice of states. The change has been driven by threats as well as opportunities. Transnational issues such as climate change and occasional flashpoints like the territorial disputes of the South China and the East China Seas pose challenges while economic integration and the proliferation of specialized branches of law and dispute settlement mechanisms have also encouraged greater domestic implementation of international norms across Asia. These evolutions join the long-standing interest in parts of Asia (notably South Asia) in post-colonial theory and the history of international law. The Oxford Handbook of International Law in Asia and the Pacific brings together pre-eminent and emerging specialists to analyse the approach to and influence of key states of the region, as well as whether truly 'Asian' trends can be identified and what this might mean for international order.

Commercial Dispute Resolution in China Aug 20 2022 2020 marked a remarkably unusual year for all, tough and impressive enough. Along with the prevalence of COVID-19 and the deepening of economic globalization, work and production in China were resumed in an orderly manner, bringing positive economic growth against the trend. In this context, commercial dispute resolutions in China were faced with new challenges, and endured new reforms while embracing new developments. The promulgation of new laws and regulations in 2020, including the Civil Code of the People's Republic of China and the Supplementary Arrangements on Mutual Implementation of Arbitral Awards in Mainland China and Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, has elevated the arbitration system to a higher level. Arbitration institutions such as the Beijing Arbitration Commission/Beijing International Arbitration Center (hereinafter referred to as "BAC/BIAC") carried out anti-pandemic measures in a timely manner to ensure the well-functioning of the arbitration procedures. Meanwhile, China's judicial supervision on arbitration and arbitration disclosure have undergone impressive developments. In 2020, the procedural standards of commercial mediation were further optimized, and commercial mediation institutions continued to expand and grow, while the number of mediation cases increased steadily. The "one-stop" diversified dispute resolution system was fully advanced, and the systems of litigation-mediation and arbitration-mediation have been constantly improved. Online mediation mechanism was rapidly developed in response to the new norms of pandemic prevention and control. Sino-foreign joint mediation mechanism has been gradually established, and international commercial mediation rules and systems are continuously refined. While rolling out countermeasures in full scale to mitigate impacts of pandemic, China achieved some eye-catching accomplishments in terms of legal system development and dispute resolution practices in 2020. In the area of construction engineering, new and old arbitration rules continue to coexist during the transition period of the Civil Code before it takes effect, while the arbitration and resolution of disputes over public-private-partnership (PPP) have made great breakthroughs. In the real estate sector, stricter regulatory policies were enacted and effectuated to ensure that "housing should be for living in, not for speculation". Hot topics such as real estate enterprise operations, real estate development modes, and regulation over long rental apartments attracted widespread social attention. In the energy sector, the transformation of energy structure was implemented on a large scale. The Energy Law has generally taken shape. Carbon-neutral efforts were intensified. The carbon credit trading market is prospering. Relevant regulatory rules thereof were established. In the financial sector, several new financial products gave rise to crises in 2020 but were promptly resolved. The rights-protection mechanism for stock investors was further perfected. The protection for personal financial information was strengthened, and the explorations over the system for individual bankruptcy have been accelerated. In the realm of investments, the pandemic directly affects investors' valuation of enterprises and expectation of profitability. Regulatory authorities and courts continued to enhance investment supervision and adjudication rules, all of which had far-reaching influences on the resolution of investment disputes. In terms of international trade, multiple statutes and regulatory rules were enacted in order to safeguard national security and to protect the interests of Chinese enterprises. Judicial authorities took the lead in exploring and identifying new transaction modes under the premise of adhering to international trade rules. In terms of intellectual property, the Patent Law and the Copyright Law were amended, and various judicial interpretations and guidelines were released intensively. Dispute resolution methods become more diversified, and arbitration and mediation played more important roles. In the area of civil aviation, several rules and regulations were formulated or amended. Phenomena restraining the development of the aviation industry occurred from time to time in 2020, including restrictions against traffic rights, export controls, and intellectual property rights discrimination. In the film and television entertainment industry, risks and opportunities existed side by side. The industry witnessed an increase of disputes over the performance of film and television contracts, disputes over the emerging live streaming business, and disputes over the types of works defined in copyright law. In the field of sports, the sanction mechanisms against doping violations were improved, and the protection for intellectual property rights of sports-related intangible assets were strengthened while the amount of sports-related disputes went up. To present an in-depth and systematic report on the 2020 practices and developments in the aforementioned fields, BAC/BIAC has called upon industry experts to contribute to the Annual Review and Preview of Commercial Dispute Resolution in China (2021) ("2021 Annual Review"), and released it in both Chinese and English to facilitate a better understanding of the status quo of China's commercial dispute resolutions among interested parties at home and abroad. The 2021 Annual Review is compiled based on the following principles: First, a focus on the state of the art. The 2021 Annual Review strives to showcase the latest developments in relevant industries and the leading trends in legal systems and judicial practices. It selected annual hot topics for in-depth analysis, aiming to deliver timely observations and cutting-edge contents while providing detailed information thereof. Second, a focus on the consistency and systematicness. By inheriting previous compilation rules, the 2021 Annual Review presents an annual overview of various industries, crucial laws and policies, typical cases, analyses of heated issues and prospects, such that the readers are able to grasp the practices and developments of key industries from a multi-angle, holistic perspective. Third, a focus on practicability. The 2021 Annual Review pays attention to the pragmatic value in order to help commercial entities improve their abilities of risk prevention and dispute resolution. The Editorial Committee is composed of seasoned professionals who deliver observations and opinions based on their rich experience on the industry's frontline, providing practical references for the readers. Fourth, a focus on international perspectives. The 2021 Annual Review is written in both Chinese and English, aiming to show the new developments in China's commercial dispute resolution to overseas readers, and to express the voice of China to the international community. Each report is written in both languages by the same team to ensure consistency and accuracy of contents.

Alternative Dispute Resolution and Peace-building in Africa Jan 21 2020 Conflicts in Africa have a great deal in common, and striking parallels can be drawn between them at all levels. Dynamics affecting the most complex war-time conflicts, civil unrest and other macro disputes are in play even in the smallest community conflicts. The converse is also true: lessons learned through community mediation, for example in South Africa, are applicable to the most complex and largest conflicts to be found on the continent. Together, the eleven chapters in this publication, in addition to the prologue and epilogue, suggest that a comprehensive assessment of efforts and investments in conflict resolution and peace studies in Africa since the mid-1990s is due in order to identify lessons and challenges, as well as best practices. Just as conflict dynamics are comparable between African conflicts, whether large or small, local or international, so are alternative dispute resolution processes. Effective approaches to resolving large-scale conflicts and civil wars are effective at the community level, and ineffectual techniques at the community level are just as likely to be counter-productive in mediating international disputes. While there may be some differences in mediating macro- and micro-conflicts (such as the time required, the need for negotiation teams, and the complexities of agenda development or pre-negotiations), as far as the mediation process is concerned, the differences are more like variations on a theme than real substantive dissimilarities. This volume provides case studies of programs and policies, and legislations on alternative dispute resolution and peace building, and examines and proposes some new, promising ideas for conflict prevention, as well as maintenance of peace, justice and security in Africa.
