Motorola's official documentation for the 88100 -- the chip used in concurrent programming and supercomputing that can perform up to 11 different operations at one time, and is supported by 88/OPEN, a consortium of 26 companies developing applications for this chip. The Local Government Act 1999 received Royal Assent in the summer of this year, creating a framework for "Best Value in local government management. All local authorities, and other authorities defined under the Act, will be subject to Best Value from April 2000 and there is now a real need for all those affected to understand the legal implications of the profound changes they face. "Best Value, the Government's proposed set of principles on running local authorities is underpinned by detailed legal regulation and places a duty to deliver continuous improvement to services. Each council will be expected to consult service users and others, set targets and publish both targets and results annually. There will be inspections of Best Value authorities to ensure compliance. Where councils fall short of acceptable standards the secretary of state has the power to intervene including, in serious cases, having authority to transfer responsibility from a local authority to a government nominee. This book, the first introductory guide available, meets the need for a general guide to the legal implications of best value for all personnel whose institutions are affected by the regime. Written as a concise, practical guide to the subject Best Value: Law and Management sets out the legal implications but also addresses what needs to be done to comply with the regime and contains valuable "healthcheck and "performance indicator material. Contains all the relevant regulations and regulatory guidance introduced in December 1999, together with commentary - this is essential information needed for a proper understanding of the full implications of the legislation; includes The Local Government Act 1999. An invaluable guide for local authority lawyers, fire and police authorities, the public sector housing and external contractors who wish to deal with local government. Available on 28 days' approval. This handbook aims to provide trainers and managers with the information they need to select the most effective instructive technology for their training and development needs. It provides a practitioner's view of each area of instructional technology - analyzing the job and task; analyzing performance; designing instruction; identifying, selecting and training instructors; evaluating programs. Readers will find hundreds of basic techniques, valuable hints, checklists, graphic illustrations, and practical real-life examples to help them deal with the myriad of choices available and maximize training effectiveness. Explains the process by which the US government selects architect-engineering firms to perform design services for it, and guides the prospective contractor through the maze of requirements from finding the announcement of available contracts, almost (but not quite) to the Senate subcommittee hearings on graft. Covers how to go after a job, the proposals and negotiations leading to getting it, the administration and recording requirements after the contract is awarded, and the requirements when the project is completed. Updated to the 1995 versions of the regulations. Annotation copyright by Book News, Inc., Portland, OR A new edition of our best-selling pronunciation title, now in full colour and with a new section on understanding fast, authentic speech. Metaphors are a vital linguistic component of religious speech and serve as a cultural indicator of how groups understand themselves and the world. The essays compiled in this volume analyze the use, function, and structure of metaphors in Jewish writings from the Hellenistic-Roman period (including the works of Philo and the texts of Qumran), as well as in apocryphal early Christian texts and inscriptions.
